It is a procedure in which the patient's perineal area and medicated solution using aseptic technique to relieve pain in case of haemorrhoids, perineal and rectal surgeries. Objectives: 1. To Assess the level of knowledge regarding sitz bath procedure among Third year B.Sc (N) students. 2. To find out the association between the level of knowledge regarding sitz bath procedure among III rd year B.Sc(N) students with their selected socio demographic variables. METHODOLOGY: 100 participants was selected by using non probability convenience sampling techniques who fulfill the inclusion criteria. The data collected by administering the two parts of the tool. The investigator distributes the tool for filling the socio demographic data and the structured questionnaire which consists of various items related to sitz bath procedure. The data will be analyzed by using descriptive and inferential statistics based on the objectives of the study. RESULTS: The results shows that, 11(11%) acquired A + grade knowledge, 17(17%) acquired A grade knowledge, 24 (24%) acquired B+ grade knowledge, 23(23%) acquired B grade knowledge, 21(21%) acquired C grade knowledge, and 4(4%) acquired D grade knowledge. CONCLUSION: The present study concluded that among 100 III year B.Sc (N) students with regard to assess the knowledge on sitz bath procedure 11(11%) acquired A + grade knowledge, 17 (17%) acquired A grade knowledge, 24(24%) acquired B+ grade knowledge, 23(23%) acquired B grade knowledge, 21(21%) acquired C grade knowledge, and 4(4%) acquired D grade knowledge of knowledge on sitz bath procedure. KEYWORDS: knowledge, sitz bath procedure, Nursing student.

Abstract: An enema involves inserting a liquid or gas into the rectum, which is the lower part of large intestine. The aim of enema is to empty the bowels and also allows for an examination or administration of medication. An enema administration is a technique used to stimulate stool evacuation. It is a liquid treatment most commonly used to relieve severe constipation. Objectives: To assess the level of knowledge regarding enema and find association between level of knowledge regarding enema among III year B.Sc (N) students with selected demographic variables. Materials and Methods: A quantitative research approach and descriptive research design was adopted. 60 participants who fulfill the inclusion criteria were selected by non probability convenient sampling technique. Structured questionnaires were used to collect data. The data was analyzed in terms of objectives of the study using descriptive and inferential statistics. Results: Out of 60 students, 3(5%) had A+ grade (91-100%), 8(13%) had A grade (81-90%), 12(20%) had B+ grade (71-80%), 20(33%) had B grade (61-70%), 10(17%) had C grade (51-60%), 7(12%) had got D grade (>50%) knowledge. Key words: Enema, Nursing students.

Introduction: Healthy bowel movement are those that allows to empty the colon sometimes called intestines often enough that don't feel bloated or in pain, and don't have to strain hard to get the job done. Bowel habits may tend to change with age and circumstances.

An enema involves inserting a liquid or gas into the rectum, which is the lower part of large intestine. The aim of enema is to empty the bowels and also allows for an examination or administration of medication.

The word enema is derived from a Greek word which means sending clysters is an old fashioned word for enema.

Indications for the use of enema includes evacuate the bowel before surgery, x ray or for bowel eliminations such as an endoscopy and treat severe constipation when less invasive method have failed.

Cleansing enema is contraindicated in patient with fecal stones, rectal obstruction by tumor or rectal prolapse, active coronary heart diseases and in comatose or noncompliant patients.

Usually ingestion of food creates peristaltic waves throughout the intestine that moves feces from the colon into the rectum. If a person ignores this urge it fades away and the feces become dry and hard and defecation become difficult, the colon and rectum become distended and muscle tone is lost

Abstract: Background: Glasgow Coma Scale (GCS) is a reliable and objective neurological assessment tool used for assessing and recording the level of a person's conscious state. An assessment of conscious levels is considered a primary action of doctors and nurses who care for patients with neurological or neurosurgical problems. This study assessed the knowledge and practice regarding Glasgow coma scale among nurses in Nellore. Objective: To assess the level of knowledge and practice regarding Glasgow coma scale among nurses working in Narayana medical college hospital, Nellore. Methods: The staff nurses in this cross-sectional study working in Narayana medical college and hospital, Nellore. A total of 100 staff nurses were randomly selected. Trained investigators administered a standard questionnaire to each participant during a face to face interview and carried out data collection procedure. Results: The results shown that, out of 100 staff nurses with regard to the level of the knowledge on computers 10 (10%) of nurses having 'C' grade knowledge, 88 (88%) of nurses having 'B' grade knowledge, and 2 (2%) of nurses having 'A' grade knowledge. Conclusion: This study found that 10(10)% of staff nurses having C grade knowledge, 88(88)% of staff nurses having B grade knowledge, and 2(2)% of staff nurses having A grade knowledge. Regarding practice, 12 (12%) had Adequate Practice, 78 (78%) had moderately Adequate practice and 10 (10%) had Inadequate practice. These findings show a positive correlation between knowledge and practice. This finding raises concerns on the importance of knowledge and skill in assessing GCS. Continuing education and practice on use of the GCS tool are important. Keywords: Knowledge, Practice, Glasgow coma, Staff Nurses.

Introduction: Nurses form the first line of primary care for patients. They are responsible to assess patients systemically and as a whole. One of the major challenges that nurses face during assessment is the neurological dysfunctions, especially for patients with coma. The most important assessment in the neurological examination is to assess the level of consciousness (LOC), which is considered as the first step in neurological examination. Detecting the changes in level of consciousness depends on the accuracy of nursing assessment. Therefore, the nurses should be knowledgeable, confident, and quick in performing this task. Based on this assessment a change in the interventions and clinical decisions for patient's condition and treatment might be.

Rapid and correct assessment will minimize the neurological complications, unnecessary and incorrect diagnostic procedures, mortality and morbidity. The basic requirement for any assessment to be effective is the availability of an objective, valid,

Abstract: Background: Tetanus is an acute, life -threatening disease caused by toxins produced by the bacterium clostridium tetani. Tetanus spores in the environment and transmission occurs when spores are introduced in to the body, usually through a puncture - type wound. Tetanus does not spread between people spores of the clostridium tetani bacteria are found in soil, animal feces, and dust. The signs and symptoms of tetanus often begin with mild spasm in the jaw muscles also known as lock jaw or trismus. Back muscle spasms often cause aching called opisthotonos. In severe cases of tetanus, life-threatening respiratory and cardiovascular complications can present with true one half of mortality associated with tetanus. According to WHO in 2016 estimated that the international tourism exceeds 1.2 billion persons in each year, with more than 20% of travelers reporting some type of illness. Worldwide all countries are committed to elimination of adults tetanus incidence to below one case per 1000 live births per year in every district. Males are more affected than the females. In males 2038 cases are affected, in females are 1,344 cases are affected. Aim: The aim of the study was to assess the knowledge on causes and complications of tetanus among adults Objectives: 1. To assess the knowledge on causes and complications of Tetanus among adults. 2. To find out the association between the causes and complications of Tetanus with their selected socio demographic variables Results: The Research was carried out in Kamakshi Nagar area Nellore. The data reveals that the knowledge on causes and complications of tetanus among 50 adults, 1(2%) had B+ grade, 5(10%) are had B grade knowledge (more than 55%), 9(18%) are had C grade knowledge (more than 50%) and 35(70%) are had D grade knowledge (less than 50%). The findings related to mean and standard deviation of knowledge on causes and complications of tetanus among adults. the mean score is 13.22, standard deviation 2.83.

Introduction:

Tetanus is an acute, life -threatening disease caused by toxins produced by the bacterium clostridium tetani. Tetanus spores in the environment and transmission occurs when spores are introduced in to the body, usually through a puncture - type wound.

It occurs in all parts of the world but is most frequent in hot and wet climates where the soil contains a lot of organic matter. In 2015 there were about 209,000 infections and about 59,000 deaths globally. This is down from 356, 000 deaths in 1990. Description of the disease exists form at least as far back as the 5th century BC.

The incubation period of tetanus may be 41 to several months, but is usually about 10 period that causes the more severe symptoms. In neonatal tetanus,

Abstract: Non communicable chronic diseases are the silent epidemic of the 21st century. It is the major cause of mortality and disability across the world through they are preventable and manageable with early detection and correct treatment protocol and through simple life style modifications. Aim: A study to assess the effectiveness Of Foot bath technique on blood pressure among patients with Hypertension. The study was conducted at Narayana Medical college hospital, Nellore by using a descriptive cross sectional design. Materials and Methods: 60 CABG patients were selected by Convenience sampling technique, interview method was used to collect data. Setting and design: The data was organized, tabulated, analyzed and interpreted by using descriptive statistics and inferential statistics. Results: The study shows that there is statistically significant reduction of blood pressure level among hypertensive clients with the application of foot bath technique.

Introduction: The incidence of non communicable chronic disease is growing as an astonishing rate globally. The global burden of diseases study estimates that 52% of CVD deaths occur below the age of 70 years in India. The contributing factors for the growing burden of CVD's are increasing prevalence of risk factors especially hypertension, dyslipidemia, diabetes, obesity, physical inactivity and tobacco use.

Hypertension is an important worldwide public health challenge because of its high frequency and concomitant risks of cardio vascular and kidney disease. It has been identified as the leading risk factors for mortality and is ranked third as a cause of Disability Adjusted Life Years (DALY).

Hypertension is the force exerted by the blood against the walls of the blood vessels as it flows through them. The causes of the hypertension are stress, hereditary, obesity, aneurysm, bad headache, smoking, lack of physical activity, too much salt in the diet, too much alcohol consumption (more than 1 or 2 drinks per day), age, family history hypertension, chronic kidney diseases and adrenal and thyroid disorders etc. In hypertension, the heart must work harder to pump blood. High blood pressure can also damage the wall of the arteries with time hypertension increases the risk of heart diseases, kidney diseases and stroke. The clinical manifestations of hypertension are headache, bloody nose, severe anxiety, dyspnea, fatigue, dizziness, angina, palpitations etc.

The hypertension is common cause of death in industrial countries. It is one of the common reason or developing the complications like multi organ failure, heart failure, ventricular hypertrophy, widening of arteries, stroke and other complications like hypertensive retinopathy, hypertensive nephropathy etc.

The treatment modalities of hypertension are mainly 3 pillars i.e., diet, exercises and medications through these contribute in reducing the blood pressure apart from it alternative therapy, play a vital

INTRODUCTION :-

Nursing Audit :- Nursing audit is defined as the evaluation of nursing care in retrospect through analysis of nursing records. It is a systemic format and written appraisal by nurses of the quality of content and the process of nursing service from the Nursing Records of the discharged patient. Nursing services are necessary for every client seeking care of any type, including health promotion, Diagnosis and Treatment. With the changing trends in the health care delivery, the role of nurse manager is becoming largely devoted to the holistic care of client which can only be achieved through the careful appraisal of the services in order to make the further reforms.

BRIEF HISTORY OF NURSING AUDIT :-

- Before 1915 - very little was known about the concept
- 1918 - industrial concern introduced for the beginning of medical audit
- George G. Roward - introduced the term physician for the first time medical audit.
- Ten years later Thomas R. Pondon MD established a method of Medical audit based on procedures used by financial account. He evaluated the medical care by reviewing the medical records
- 1955 - First report of Nursing audit of the hospital published
- Next 15 years, nursing audit is reported from study (or) record
- The program is received for record Nursing plan, Nurses' notes, Patient condition, nursing care.

DEFINITION :-

Nursing audit refers to the assessment of the quality of clinical nursing - ELISON

Nursing audit is the means by which nurses themselves can define standards from their point of view and describe the actual practice of nursing

- Goster Walfer.

CHARACTERISTICS :-

- It improve The quality of nursing care.
- It compares actual practice with agreed standards of practice
- It is formal and systemic
- It involves peer review
- It provides feedback for those whose records are audited
- It includes followup an audit sometimes later to find out if the practice is fulfilling the agreed standards.

PURPOSES OF NURSING AUDIT :-

- * Evaluation :- Evaluating the nursing care given . achieve deserved and feasible quality of nursing care.
- * verification :- stimulant to better records . focuses on care provided and not on care provider
- * Contribution to research :- Review of professional work (or) in other words the quality of nursing care i.e we try to see how far the nurses have conformed to the norms and standards of nursing practice while taking care of patients.
- * It encourages followers to be actively involved in The quality control process and better records.
- * It clearly communicates standards of care of subordinates
- * Facilitates more efficient use of health resources , helps in designing response orientation and in-service education programme.

TYPES OF AUDIT :-

1. Internal Auditing :-

Internal auditing is a control technique performed by an external auditor who is an employee of the organisation. He makes an independent appraisal the policies , plans and points the deficits in the policies (or) plans and Give suggestion for eliminating deficits .

2. External Audit :-

It is an independent appraisal of the organization's financial account and statements. The external auditor is a qualified person who has to certify the annual profit and loss account and prepare a balance sheet after careful examination of the relevant books and documents.

Evaluation of Nursing Audit :-

There are 2 types

- 1) Retrospective Evaluation.
- 2) Concurrent Evaluation.

1) RETROSPECTIVE VIEW :-

It refers to the detail quality care assessment after the patient has been discharged. The records can be reviewed for completeness of records, diagnosis, Treatment, lab investigations, consultations, nursing care plan, complications and End results.

CONCURRENT VIEW :

It is achieved by reviewing patient care during the time of hospital stay by the patient. It includes assessing the patient at the bedside in relation to the predetermined criteria like errors, omissions, deficiencies, as well as efficiencies and also excess in the care of patients under them.

It involves direct and indirect observation, interviewing the staff responsible for care and receiving the pt's records and care plan.

AUDIT CYCLE :

According to Payne, the steps in audit, it includes

- * Criteria Development
- * selection of cases
- * work sheet preparation
- * case evaluation
- * Tabulation of evaluation
- * Presentation of reports

In general, the stages of audit cycle :-

- Identify the need for change
- collecting data on performance
- Assess criteria against criteria and standards
- Identify need for change

AUDIT cycle:-

Stage-1 - preparation :

- choose a topic
- preferably on which is a high priority for before going to audit & audit files need to auditors.
- Identify available resources. eg
- Your organisation may have a local audit
- Lead or office, there may be existing guidelines defining

Stage 2 - select criteria:-

- Define the criteria - This should be in the form of a statement - eg: All patients with hypertension who smoke should be offered
- smoking cessation advice
- Define the standard - usually a target
- This may be a min standards (or) an optimal one, depending on the clinical scenario

Stage 3 - Measuring level of performance :-

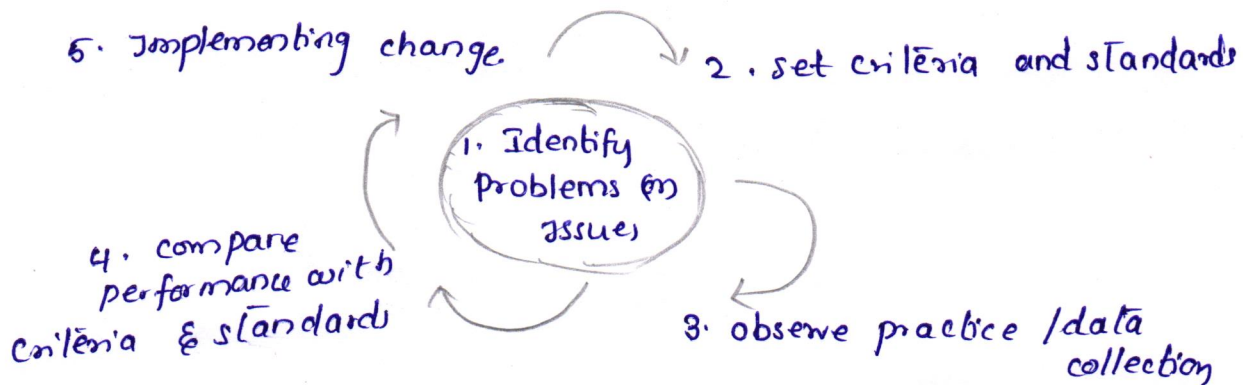

- collect the data
- may be from computerised records
- manual collection or both
- may be retrospective (or) prospective
- Analyse the data collected
- standard set with the actual performance

Stage 4 : Making Improvements :-

- present the results and discuss them with the relevant teams in your organization
- The results should be used to develop an action.

Stage 5 - Maintaining Improvements :-

- This follows up the previous stages of the audit, to determine whether the actions have been effective (or) whether further improvements are needed.
- It involves repeating the audit
- cycle ; or audit spiral

TIPS FOR A SUCCESSFUL AUDIT :-

- * Adequate Training and support for all staff involved
- * choose the topic carefully
- * Enlist support for your organization
- * A Team approach - involve all relevant staff
- * Agree confidentiality of findings and culture
- * Allow sufficient time - protected time is helpful
- * Good data collection
- * Deliver intensive feedback

TRAINING FOR AUDITORS SHOULD EVALUATE THE FOLLOWING :-

- A Group discussions To see how the group rates the care received using the notes of a patient who has been discharge these should be anonymous and should reflect a total period of care not exceeding two weeks .

AUDIT COMMITTEE :-

Informed comparison of a minimum of five members who are interested in quality assurance are:

- clinically competent and able to work together in a group
- It is recommended that each member should review not more than 10 patients each month and that the auditor should have the ability to carry out an audit in about 15 minutes
- If there is less than 150 discharge per month.
- Then all the records may be audited if they all the records to be audited then an auditor may select 10% of discharge

Advantages :-

- * Patient is assured for good service
- * Better planning of quality improvement can be done
- * It develops openness to change
- * It provides assurance, by meeting evidence based practice
- * It minimises error & harm to patients
- * It reduces complaints & claims.

Disadvantages :-

- * It may be considered as a punishment to professional group
- * Many components may make analysis difficult
- * It is time consuming
- * It requires a team of trained auditors.
